SURF CAMP REWARDS SCHOLARS

Pat Weber, founder, owner and head coach of the San Diego Surfing Academy, announced today that SDSA will be rewarding students of all levels with deep discounts for good grades on their most recent report card going into the summer of 2006. For the popular overnight surf camp which runs for six days and five nights throughout the summer, each "A" will earn a $50 discount and each "B" will fetch a $25 discount off of the all-inclusive price of $995. If you had six classes and do the math, straight "A's" could mean a reduction of $300! Documented proof of the report card is required.

The SDSA Surf Camp is located at the north end of South Carlsbad State Beach Campgrounds, San Diego County, California, USA, and occupies a secure, fenced half acre of prime oceanfront property. The surf training facility is perched on a bluff overlooking a sandy beach with beginner, improver, and expert friendly waves. The adult surf instructors are enthusiastic, safety-certified water men and women.

Weber, 45, is entering his twelfth year of full-time surf school operation and says, "It's about time someone rewarded the good kids. The ones who work hard and listen to their parents need to know that it pays off. I wanted to offer some positive reinforcement that there are benefits to being a good citizen. What goes around comes around, that kind of thing".

Reservations for lessons, day camps, and overnight camps can be made at 800.447.SURF(7873) or 760.230.1474. Registration forms are online at SurfingAcademy.com or you can print out the form and fax payment to 760.230.1475.
